Terms and Conditions: I am hereby providing "written instructions" to Credit Infonet, Inc., doing business as CIN Legal Data Services (hereinafter, "CIN"), under Section 604(a) (2) of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. §1681 et. seq.), authorizing CIN to obtain my personal credit profile from Equifax, Experian and/or Transunion ("Credit Profile") in order to provide me and my bankruptcy attorney with CIN products to be used on preparing and verifying bankruptcy case pursuant to the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005. In fulfilling my requests for credit data, I specifically authorize Equifax, Experian and Transunion to provide CIN with all medical information that may be contained within my consumer credit file. I have provided photo identification to my attorney to verify my identity, a copy of which is attached hereto. I acknowledge that the FCRA places no restrictions on how a consumer may utilize or share his/her own credit report that is ordered at his/her written instructions. I also acknowledge that the FCRA provides that anyone who knowingly and willfully obtains information under false pretenses shall be fined under Title 18, or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both. I acknowledge that CIN's proprietary credit report and monitoring products ("the Products") are provided "AS IS" and that CIN makes no representation or warranty, express or implied, with respect to the accuracy, validity, or completeness of the Products, or to their fitness for any particular purposes. I hereby release CIN and CIN's parent, sister, and affiliated companies; successors and assigns; and its and their directors, officers, agents, employees, and independent contractors (collectively, "CIN's Affiliates") from liability for any negligence in connection with the preparation of the Products; and from any losses, damages, expenses, costs or obligations of any kind and nature whatsoever suffered by me resulting directly or indirectly from the inaccuracy, invalidity, incompleteness, delivery, or non-delivery of Product(s) or any portion or data element thereof. I acknowledge that when creating the Products, CIN may access my credit profile as maintained by Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion; any one of these credit bureaus; or any combination of two or more of these credit bureaus. I understand that any time CIN obtains my credit profile from one or more of these credit bureaus, a "hard inquiry" will be placed on my credit record. I acknowledge that not all of the data contained in my credit record as maintained by Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion will appear on the CIN credit report products. I specifically acknowledge that none of the Products will contain any calculation of or data on my current credit score. I acknowledge that CIN's credit monitoring product will provide me with the daily notifications ("Alerts") of changes that are made to my credit report as maintained by Experian and/or TransUnion; that Alerts can be delivered to me via email or SMS text message; that standard text messaging rates will apply to each text message sent or received as provided in my wireless rate plan; and that I can set up my preferences through my secure account accessible via CIN's consumer web portal. I agree that if one or more provisions of this document are held for any reason to be invalid, illegal, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions of this document will be unaffected, and this document will be construed as if such provision(s) had not been contained herein. I understand that this authorization will be effective for twelve (12) months.

Disclosures from CIN and Experian: The Fair Credit Reporting Act allows you to obtain a disclosure from every credit reporting agency of the nature and substance of all information in your file at the time of the request. Full disclosure of information in your file at Experian must be obtained directly from Experian by calling 888-397-3742 or logging on to www.experian.com/consumer. The credit report you are requesting from The CINgroup is not intended to constitute the disclosure of Experian information required by the Fair Credit Reporting Act or similar state laws. You are entitled to receive a disclosure directly from the consumer reporting agency free of charge under the following circumstances: a. You have been denied credit, insurance or employment within the past sixty (60) days as a result of your credit report; b. You certify in writing that you are unemployed and intend to apply for employment in the 60-day period beginning on the date on which you made the certification; c. You are a recipient of public welfare assistance; d. You have reason to believe that your file at the agency contains inaccurate information due to fraud; and e. annually at www.annualcreditreport.com. Otherwise, the consumer reporting agency may impose a reasonable charge for the disclosure. The Fair Credit Reporting Act permits you to dispute inaccurate or incomplete information in your credit file. You understand that accurate information cannot be changed. You do not have to purchase your credit report or other information from The CINgroup to dispute inaccurate or incomplete information in your Experian file or to receive a copy of my Experian consumer credit report. Experian's National Consumer Assistance Center provides a proprietary consumer disclosure that is different from the consumer credit report provided The CINgroup. The disclosure report must be obtained directly from Experian. Consumers residing in the States of Colorado, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Jersey, and Vermont may receive a free copy of their consumer credit report once per year and residents of the State of Georgia may receive two copies per year. Fraud Alerts are available to any eligible consumers—free of charge—from a national consumer reporting agency.

ATTORNEY: PLEASE GIVE THIS NOTICE TO CONSUMERS

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552.

● You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment - or to take another adverse action against you - must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.

● You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your "file disclosure"). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:

- a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
- you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
- your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
- you are on public assistance;
- you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

● In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

● You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.

● You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.

● Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

•Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated, negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.

•Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

•You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

•You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.

•You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

•Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

•States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General.

NOTICE TO CLIENTS WHO CONTEMPLATE FILING FOR BANKRUPTCY PROTECTION

Pursuant to the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005 this notice is required by Section 527(a)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code. The purpose of this Notice and the Statement Mandated by Section 527(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, which you have been provided as a separate document, are to make you aware of some of your obligations if you file for bankruptcy protection. Please review this notice and sign and date below to indicate that you were provided this information.

Note: This Notice and the Statement Mandated by Section 527(b) are required by legislation adopted by Congress in 2005 after several years of intense lobbying by the credit industry. In our opinion they are designed to intimidate people who need debt relief under the Bankruptcy Code and erroneously imply that debtors are dishonest. If you are honest and meet the requirements set out under the law, you are entitled to debt relief. We can guide you through all of the requirements of filing bankruptcy as long as you provide us with accurate and complete information.

You are notified as follows:

1. All information that you are required to provide with your bankruptcy petition and thereafter in your case is required to be complete, accurate and truthful.
2. All of your assets and all of your liabilities are required to be completely and accurately disclosed in the documents filed to commence your case, and the replacement value of each asset as defined in section 506 must be stated in those documents where requested after reasonable inquiry to establish such value.
3. Current monthly income, the amounts specified in section 707(b)(2), and, in a case under chapter 13 of this title, disposable income (determined in accordance with section 707(b)(2)) are required to be stated after reasonable inquiry.
4. Information that you provide during your case may be audited pursuant to this title, and the failure to provide such information may result in dismissal of the case under this title or other sanction, including a criminal sanction.

Please write today's date and sign in the space below to indicate that you were provided this notice. Thank you.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT BANKRUPTCY ASSISTANCE SERVICES

Pursuant to the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005 this notice is required by Section 527(b) of the Bankruptcy Code. Please review this statement and sign and date below to indicate that you were provided this information.

If you decide to seek bankruptcy relief, you can represent yourself, you can hire an attorney to represent you, or you get help in some localities from a bankruptcy petition preparer who is not an attorney. THE LAW REQUIRES AN ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARER TO GIVE YOU A WRITTEN CONTRACT SPECIFYING WHAT THE ATTORNEY OR BANKRUPTCY PETITION PREPARER WILL DO FOR YOU AND HOW MUCH IT WILL COST. Ask to see the contract before you hire anyone.

The following information helps you understand what must be done in a routine bankruptcy case to help you evaluate how much service you need. Although bankruptcy can be complex, many cases are routine.

Before filing a bankruptcy case, either you or your attorney should analyze your eligibility for different forms of debt relief available under the Bankruptcy Code and which form of relief is most likely to be beneficial to you. Be sure you understand the relief you can obtain and its limitations. To file a bankruptcy case, documents called a Petition, Schedules and Statements of Financial Affairs, as well as in some cases a Statement of Intention need to be prepared correctly and filed with the bankruptcy court. You will have to pay a filing fee to the bankruptcy court. Once your case starts, you will have to attend the required first meeting of creditors where you may be questioned by a court official called a "trustee" and by creditors.

If you choose to file a chapter 7 case, you may be asked by a creditor to reaffirm a debt. You may want help deciding whether to do so. A creditor is not permitted to coerce you into reaffirming your debts.

If you choose to file a chapter 13 case in which you repay your creditors what you can afford over 3 to 5 years, you may also want help with preparing your chapter 13 plan and with the confirmation hearing on your plan which will be before a bankruptcy judge.

If you select another type of relief under the Bankruptcy Code other than chapter 7 or chapter 13, you will want to find out what should be done from someone familiar with that type of relief.

Your bankruptcy case may also involve litigation. You are generally permitted to represent yourself in litigation in bankruptcy court, but only attorneys, not bankruptcy petition preparers, can give you legal advice.

Please write today's date and sign in the space below to indicate that you were provided this information. Thank you.
